CHANGE POLITICAL CULTURE

The approach and mechanisms of governance in the Northern Territory are often overly Party political and adversarial in nature. There should be enhanced recognition of the contribution that can be made by all MLAs and those from the broader Territory community to devising approaches to tackle the important issues facing the Territory.

MLAs, Local Government and the community should have a greater involvement in the oversight of important initiatives across the Northern Territory.

Legislation will be enacted to establish the Council of Territory Co-operation. The Council shall be made up of up to six Members of the Legislative Assembly: 2 ALP, 2 CLP and at least 1 Independent.

The Council shall facilitate:

- greater levels of collaboration in the governance of the Northern Territory;
- enhance Parliamentary democracy by providing a stronger role for MLAs who are not members of the Executive – particularly on matters of common concern;
- expand involvement in important Northern Territory initiatives and projects;
- provide new avenues for Territorians to have input through the Legislative Assembly into the governance of the Northern Territory; and
- provide a roadmap for tackling some specific issues currently facing the Northern Territory.

The Council shall be empowered to conduct inquiries and make recommendations on matters of public importance which are referred to it by the Legislative Assembly or self referred.

Current matters of public importance which the Government agrees to support being referred to the Council include: Strategic Indigenous Housing and Infrastructure Program (SIHIP); Local Government Reform; the Planning Scheme and the establishment of Weddell; and A Working Future (including Homelands Policy).

The Council shall determine the appropriate timeframes and workplan for the matters referred to it. Where the Council has multiple references to it, the Council shall determine which matter it enquires into first.
